

Dr Katalin Mero

Dr Katalin Mero is associate professor of Budapest Business School, University of Applied Sciences, Budapest Hungary. From 2010 to 2016 she was associate professor at International Business School, Budapest. Prior to her academic carrier, between 2005 and 2010, she was the director of Hungarian Financial Supervisory Authority's Economics, Risk Assessment and Regulatory directorate. Previously she was the deputy head of the Financial Stability Department of the National Bank of Hungary. From 1990 to 1997 she was director of Strategy and Economic Analysis at K&H, a large Hungarian commercial bank. Prior to her banking carrier she worked as a researcher at the Economic Research Institute and Research Institute for Labour. At the very beginning of her professional carrier she worked for the Central Statistical Office's department of financial statistics and for the State Insurance Company, as an analyst. She graduated from the Corvinus University of Budapest as an economist and received her PhD from the Budapest University of Technology and Economics.