

Mathilde Bonneau is Director, International Payments Policy within the Government Relations team at PayPal, where she leads the company's payments public policy strategy across key markets, including the European Union (EU). In this role, she engages with policymakers, regulators, industry associations, and market stakeholders on retail payments and cross-border use cases, in support of resilient, secure, interoperable, and user-friendly payment solutions and ecosystems.

Mathilde developed deep expertise in EU policy by leading PayPal's engagement in the EU, on the payments services framework (PSD2-PSD3-PSR), SEPA and instant payments, and payment resilience. She contributes notably to ongoing discussions on Strong Customer Authentication (SCA) and fraud prevention.

Mathilde has over a decade of experience in payments policy. She is a member of the European Commission's Payment Systems Market Expert Group (PSMEG) and the Financial Stability Board's Legal, Regulatory and Supervisory (LRS) Taskforce, contributing to European and international payments policy discussions.

She holds an MSc in European Politics and Government from the London School of Economics and an MA in European Affairs from Sciences Po Paris.
