SE	Sweden	Finansinspektionen (Swedish Financial Supervisory Authority)	No	My competent authority does not and does not intend to comply with the requirements of the Guidelines and recommendation in one specific area: sharing of non-public information with external auditors. Non-compliance is due to the Swedish Public Access to information and Secrecy Act. Information that is not subject to secrecy can still be shared with auditors in accordance with the Guidelines. However, secrecy applies to operations of a competent authority (such as supervision and licensing) which include handling of information about the commercial operating circumstances of the supervised credit institutions, if it can be assumed that that credit institution would suffer damage if the information were revealed. For that reason the Swedish FSA is prohibited by law to share such information with any third parties, and that includes the statutory auditors and the audit firms. Secrecy also applies to information about financial or personal circumstances of another party who has entered into a commercial or similar relationship with the credit institution. If the credit institution gives its consent to share information that is subject to secrecy about the commercial or operating circumstances, the information may, under certain circumstances, be shared if the disclosure is subject to specific conditions that limits the recipient's right to pass on or freely use the information.
